Hi Matthew,

I can confirm all the foul water and surface water from our site enters the mains sewer system. I have visually inspected the systems myself and traced the flow by adding water down the drains and flowing it through the network of manholes.

I also checked with Welsh Water and an independent building contractor about the legality of the foul water and the surface water both running into the mains sewer and they both confirmed that this is acceptable for a building of this age, I can confirm I have not changed any of the drainage during our occupation.

Regards Tony
